How we use your data

Student data will be stored on a database in accordance with the Data Protection Act, and the General Data Protection Regulation when it comes into effect in May 2018. We collect your data for three main reasons:

For the purpose of monitoring, which allows us to fulfil compulsory external reporting requirements to regulatory bodies such as the Office for Students (OfS), as well as giving us a clear picture of the activities we deliver and people we work with.

For the purpose of evaluation, which helps us assess the effectiveness of different initiatives on widening participation to Higher Education. This includes long-term tracking of participants’ education journeys, which lets us see how many of the students who participate in our activities go on to university. For this purpose, this data may be shared with the OfS, Higher Education Statistics Agency or the University and Colleges Admissions Service (UCAS) and our partners including colleges, Higher Education Access Tracker service subscribers and the national Data Service. We will not release data to any unauthorised third parties.

For the purpose of contextualised admissions where we want to improve inclusivity, the University may use this data to inform and support its decision making process.

You have the right to opt out of sharing your data at any time, please contact pdodataprotection@kent.ac.uk to do this. You also have the right to a copy of the data held about you by us. Requests should be made in writing to The Data Protection Officer, P1.03 Darwin College, University of Kent, Canterbury CT2 7NZ.
